Post-Boot Camp Checklist, Month Three

After Career Workshops conclude students are often in need of additional support as they initiate and navigate the career search process. This is a very challenging time for bootcamp grads. The list below will keep grads motivated and on track with achieving their goals. This list needs to be checked off in the 3rd month following Career Readiness week.

Evaluate your job searching strategy, and the results yielded. Thinking very programmatically, we can follow this logic:

If you aren't getting offers, you probably need to improve your interviews.
If you aren't getting interviews, you probably need to improve your phone screens.
If you aren't getting phone screens, you probably need to review your resume.

❏ Report back to your Career Services Manager with the following information:
- ❏ Number of jobs you have applied to
- ❏ The companies and roles you've applied to
- ❏ If you've been getting phone screens, onsites, offers, or rejections, etc
- ❏ How well you've stuck to your study schedule and routine
- ❏ Projects you are working on

❏ Not Getting Interviews
- ❏ Review your resume with your CSM
- ❏ Explain how you are spending your time

❏ Not Getting Offers
- ❏ Set up a mock behavioral interview with your CSM
- ❏ Set up a mock technical interview with a TA or instructor

❏ Not Applying At All
- ❏ Explain what projects/courses you are working on
- ❏ Review your resume with your CSM

❏ Check In with your Dojo Buddy and update them on Month 3 of your job search

❏ Identify at least 5 technology professionals (either an existing connection, or a new one) and request an informational interview/coffee chat. If it is a new connection, develop a relationship first, before requesting an interview.
- ❏ Follow up via email with this person

❏ Dedicate time daily for algorithm and data structures study (1 hour minimum)
